

IN SECOND PLACE AT LAST.

IT WAS NOT EASY TO GET THERE, FOR THE CLEVELANDS FOUGHT HARD TO WIN.

A Pitcher's Game in Which Grover Had Sixties the Best of It—Two Errors by Tebeau and Scientific Hitting by the New Yorks Won the Game—The Champs Had a Hard Fight of it, but They Came Out With Flying Colors—How the Other Games Resulted—News and Gossip.

The New York team have at last managed to squeeze into second place, and will now chase the Bostonians. The latter team are but thirty-four points ahead. Yesterday's scores were: New York 4; Cleveland 3; Boston 13; Pittsburgh 1; Indianapolis 2; Philadelphia 3; Chicago 2.

THE RECORD.

Chas. Wm. Post, P. C., Toledo. Post, Post, P. C., Boston. Post, Post, P. C., Newark. Post, Post, P. C., New York. Post, Post, P. C., Pittsburgh. Post, Post, P. C., Cleveland. Post, Post, P. C., Indianapolis. Post, Post, P. C., Philadelphia. Post, Post, P. C., Chicago.

New York, 42; Cleveland, 3; Boston, 13; Pittsburgh, 1; Indianapolis, 2; Philadelphia, 3; Chicago, 2.

THE ATLANTIC ASSOCIATION.

Wilkesbarre still manages to hold on to first place by a close margin over Jersey City.

Yesterday's scores were: Jersey City 7; Worcester 3; Wilkes-barre 21; Hartford 1; Lowell 7; New Haven 4.

THE RECORD.

Chas. Wm. Post, Post, P. C., Toledo. Post, Post, P. C., Boston. Post, Post, P. C., Newark. Post, Post, P. C., New York. Post, Post, P. C., Pittsburgh. Post, Post, P. C., Cleveland. Post, Post, P. C., Indianapolis. Post, Post, P. C., Philadelphia. Post, Post, P. C., Chicago.

New York, 42; Cleveland, 3; Boston, 13; Pittsburgh, 1; Indianapolis, 2; Philadelphia, 3; Chicago, 2.

THE NEW YORKS, 4; CLEVELAND, 3.

The New Yorks are to-day in second place in the League race, and it was by defeating the Clevelanders yesterday, that they did it. The contest between the New York and Cleveland Clubs yesterday one got second place and the other to hold it. Was one of the prettiest as well as the hardest fought that has been played in this city this season.

It was any one game from start to finish, and it was only owing to luck favoring the home team that they won.

It was not all luck, however, for a more skillful exhibition of batting one would not wish to see.

With the exception of base hits, the New Yorks were clearly outplayed at every point. They made one more error than the visitors. They one less earned run, but their base hits, the visitors' two, very costly errors, and their fine placing of the ball all went toward helping in the run getting, and eventually in the victory. There were 3,166 spectators present, and at times they became so excited that they stood on their feet and howled. There was not the customary excitement, however, for it was too hot. The sun shot its rays down on the heads of the spectators, and in a measure kept them still, but they would forget the heat sometimes in their excitement. Canvas was drawn over the west end of the grand stand during the game, and it afforded some little protection from the sun. To-day the whole stand will be covered with canvas.

Many of the spectators who went to the game did so with the expectation of seeing O'Brien pitch, but they were disappointed. O'Brien was not in form, and Gruber went in the box. From the work that Gruber did in this game, it is clear that he is a good pitcher, but he may be, could not have done much if any better, Gruber had a good command of the ball, good curves, and plenty of speed. As far as his arm is concerned, he is a good pitcher, but with one exception, it was very fine, Gruber carried off the leading honors. His work all through the game was brilliant, and was only equalled by that of the Clevelanders, these men seemed to do everywhere at the same time.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning. It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it, and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

Of the New York's two errors only one was an error, and by Gruber, a man who was a good player, and a man that was also a good runner. The ball was hit into the ground, and Gruber carried off the leading honors. His work all through the game was brilliant, and was only equalled by that of the Clevelanders, these men seemed to do everywhere at the same time.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning. It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning. It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it, and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of the crowd roared over our little second baseman for his efforts.

One day, by Richardson, needs mentioning.

It was in the third inning, when he hit a hard right field, which no one had any idea could be stopped. It was one hand, fumbled it,

and then the ball was dropped. He then ran on his heel like a flash and threw the runner out.

It was a new way of catching base hits, as the players could not call it, and the applause of